The Muslims aren't coming. No, they are already here. They have weaseled their way into charter schools in America at the expense of U.S. taxpayers.

Many of the charter schools throughout this country are being run by a secretive and powerful sect from Turkey called the Gulen Movement, so named after and headed by a Turkish preacher named Fethullan Gulen who has founded other schools in 100 countries.

The Gulen Movement opened the first U.S. charter school in America in 1999.

Gulen's schools spread rapidly, when Gulen figured out how to work our system and get U.S. taxpayers to pay for his religious and social movement.

This movement now operates the largest number of charter schools in this country.

In my research I've learned this movement has 135 schools, teaching more than 45,000 students in 26 states.

Guess who is paying for this?

You are-the American taxpayer.

These schools have Turkish board members and Turkish teachers who are referred to as "international teachers."

After the school day is over, before the buses are allowed to leave, the students are taught Islam.

This is brain-washing America's children, financed by local governments and federal grants.

Charter schools hire and fire their teachers and thus avoid control by educational departments.

Our dumb politicians are assisting the Muslims in taking over America and slowly turning it into an Islamic state. Thirty-six Turkish charter schools in Texas have received $100 Million in government funds and 16 percent of the workers are Turkish.

Don't let this administration in D.C. steal our heritage. The propaganda being spread to America's youth distorts its Founding Fathers, moral values, free market system, and Christianity. If we continue to ignore this threat, then our children and grandchildren may very well live in an Islamic state.

Can we afford four more years of mismanagement of the U.S. Government and support of radical Islam?

I have the constitutional right to believe and say the above.

God bless America.
