

“In God We Trust”

Written by Jimmy Cook
Tuesday, July 30, 2013

On this day in 1956 President Dwight Eisenhower approved a law passed by Congress that made “In God We Trust” the national motto of the United States. In 1966, it was added to all paper money.

Our national currency may be stamped with “In God We Trust,” but our heart is not.

Day by day, week by week, month by month, and year by year, we are drifting farther away from God.

This pleases the atheists, the liberals and a host of others whose agenda is to lead the citizens of this country away from God.

Godly people are objecting to our government pushing for a common core study for all students in America--an objection that is rooted in godliness. For the intent of the common core study is to brain-wash the students of our nation by turning them away from the messages of Christianity.

The textbooks which will be eventually adopted will be written as to make abortion, homosexuality, same-sex marriage, and pre-marital sex acceptable to educated people.

The Bible as a moral guide will largely disappear from our culture.

It is not in God we trust today, but in wealth, in power, and in crooked politicians who occupy the seats in Congress.

We can trust in God today, or watch our nation fade from history tomorrow. If you are afraid of Obama and the rest of the change agents today, then I pity you and the children of tomorrow who will suffer at the hands of America’s enemies within.

Pray for our weak leaders, but do more than pray, take a stand for God and this nation.